In this two-parter based on events that took place in L.A. in 1985, Sam Wanamaker and Kim Hunter play an elderly Jewish couple (Gerald and Vera Woodman) who are gunned down in the garage of their condo by hooded assailants. At the funeral a woman with a thick accent comes up to one of their sons, Elliott Gould, and, like the portentous gypsy woman in a werewolf movie, points at him and screeches, "You! How could you do this? Your own parents. Everyone knows how you hated him. [You] wanted him dead." Eventually Gould and his brother (John Pleshette) are charged with hiring hit men to collect on their mother's insurance policy.

The movie, which concludes the following night, is an odd hybrid: half murder prosecution and half feminist manifesto. The focus soon settles on the oh-so-slow transformation of Gould's wife (Mimi Rogers). She begins as a submissive spouse. But once her husband is jailed, her affluent friends turn away, the money dries up, and she grows more independent and assertive -- getting a job, starting a romance, dealing with creditors and struggling to keep her rebellious kids in line. (As evidenced by the Amy Fisher movies, TV's true-crime projects are invariably shaped by which of the principals involved sold his or her rights to the producers. In this case it was the daughter-in-law.)

The flashbacks depicting the wrangling and acrimony among Woodman's family, all in the plastics manufacturing business, hold a certain crass, lurid fascination. But the emergence of Rogers is tedious. Clancy Brown, Joe Spano and Andy Romano costar. Grade: C+

We are now affiliated with the Allied Senior Citizens Clubs of the State of California, We have participated on the 4th Annual Older Americans Recognition Day on April 26th held at the county supervisors' offices. That was a great event of the retirees of our County, our Union Office contributed showing eggs for that occasion we received a very nice thanks letter from the County office.

We celebrated Mothers Day on May 8th with fine refreshments and a concert of our Mandoline Orchestra, The Sisters Fay Pinkelstien - Emma Goodman and Saidie Sherman prepared the refreshments, Sister Maria Del-Temp was on that committee.

We had a very well attend meeting, We are now participating in a committee from the Senior Citizens Active committee of the A.F.L. - C.I.O. preparing a conference of Senior Citizens problems that will take place on Saturday June 28th from 9:30 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. at the Statler Hotel. We have a Delegate that will represent the California Union Retirees that is Bro. James Crabray of the Steel Workers Union, representing the Union Retirees of Calif. Many resolutions were passed by local Unions - Council, and Jt. Bd.'s. To improve our Social Security benefits Medicare and lower prices on medicines for the Elderly Americans, we have about 15 Gold Card Members of the Concil of Senior Citizens in Washington.

We are trying on very best to make our Golden Club of the I.L.G.W.U. Popular amongs Union members retirees in Calif. and in the U.S.A. So far we are doing a good job. We are recognized as a leading group of union retirees as an example for other unions.

We also replied with a nice thanks letter to Bro. David Dubinsky Administrator of the I.L.G.W.U Retiree Service Dept. for sending us a check for 1000.00 for our activities for 1958-69 It is due thanks to our leadership in our Union Bro. Dear Sidney Sorkin,

Thank you so very much for your letter, which has had to wait a while through the holidays, because our daughter was the Cantorial Soloist for the services of the Reconstructionist groups in the San Fernando Valley - and we also feel very comfortable in that atmosphere, and I was quite involved.

Your letter reminded me of Clare Greenberg, who must be the daughter of our wonderful, multi-faceted teacher in the Sholem Aleichem School II in Chicago, of which my parents were on the board, and which my brothers and I attended. He was Chaim Pomerantz. Clare probably has a copy of the Sholem Aleichem history, a thick book replete with articles and photographs; one photo near the end of the book shows my graduating class, with her father next to the guest of honor, Dr. Chaim Zhitlovsky.

Now to business. I have already packed for your purposes, bound copies of the Nickolayevzer Tenth and Twentieth Anniversaries; an old booklet of the clippings of their activities, printed in the Chicago Forward from 1930 to around 1937; some organization letters, and my father-in-law's biography in English and in Yiddish -- (I don't know who wrote or typed it.)

I have xeroxed from this material, everything I needed to keep.

Thank you also for mentioning your book about the Chicago landsmanshaft, which I should like to see some day. There is a very knowledgeable woman now doing a book on the history of the Yiddish secular schools in the United States, and since I inherited my father's Yiddish 'library' I was able to provide her with very early materials. (And contrary to today, those early immigrants didn't even think of clamoring for financial help from government sources. The families paid tuition, ran fund-raisers, etc.)

Since my husband and I moved to Los Angeles right after the war, I have been on the board of the Institute of Jewish Education, my children graduated from this school, in addition to public school, and for about 20 years, I put together 'ad' books mixed with history of our people, as well as history of the Institute. We now have only a lovely Nursery School, having lost pupils for our afternoon school (6 grades) to a change in the character of the neighborhood, which now has a strong 'ultra religious' influence, promising free tuition in their schools.

But we are still there, and have a thriving Yiddish Culture Club, going into its 69th season, having begun in a previous Jewish neighborhood. Our membership is now a mix of 60 to over 80 year old regulars, and for some programs their 30, 40, 50 year olds also come. On December 3, our daughter, who sings in Hebrew, Yiddish and Ladino, will present a program. I'm also including a program I did last year, printed with my Yiddish name. I'm preparing another one.

Keep up the good work. No one else can do it for you. We are very pleased that my father-in-law's collection from the one file he kept, will now be part of the history.

Shana Tova to you and yours,

Edith Wanamaker

Dear friend:

We take this opportunity of acknowledging your membership contribution for the year 1948.

The tremendous task of helping our people in Europe and finding a haven of refuge for them is imposing undue burdens upon our organization, and your kind assistance is deeply appreciated.

Dear Friends:

This being our first communication to you on the threshold of 5715, we want first of all to extend to you, your family and co-workers our heartiest wishes for a healthy and successful New Year.

We of the Division of Organizations for Histadrut can once more point with pride to a great job done in the past year: the expansion of the Los Angeles Pavilion of the Kaplan Memorial Hospital in Israel, which, thanks to your cooperation, has become a "Citadel of Health" serving now more than 100,000 Jewish pioneers in the strategic and vital lifeline of the Jewish State – the reborn desert of the Negev.

We are ready to usher in a new year in Jewish life. Let us do it in our traditional Histadrut way. Let us strengthen our partnership with those hundreds of thousands of heroes and pioneers who, in their day-to-day work, struggle for the security and independence of Israel.

Accordingly, we call upon you and your Organization to select at once three delegates to the

ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF ORGANIZATIONS FOR HISTADRUT
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1954
CAROLINA PINES, 7315 MELORE AVENUE

This year's conference and celebration will start at 10 A.M. with the registration of delegates in the Plantation Room; the luncheon and afternoon sessions will be held in the Magnolia Room of the Carolina Pines at 12 noon.

We are most happy to inform you that a special representative of the Israel Embassy in Washington, as well as Mr. Leslie Claypool, Political Editor of the Daily News, recently returned from Israel, will be our guest speakers. A wonderful musical program, with the participation of Israeli artists, will be presented. There is a nominal charge of $1.00 for the luncheon to be served in the Magnolia Room of the Carolina Pines.

Please send us immediately the names of your delegates (form and self-addressed envelope enclosed), so that we may send them all the necessary information concerning our guest speakers, artists, as well as the program of our annual celebration.

Sincerely yours,
