Dear Sid,

When my sister and her husband, Harriet and Fred Cahmann, mentioned that Sid Sorkin was interested in seeing our ~~an~~ Schover directory, I reacted with the thought that was a ~~if~~ familiar name. The more I thought about it, the more your face took shape in my mind. And then, when I spoke to Harriet again, she said that she had spoken with you again and that you were, indeed, the Sid Sorkin I knew.

In fact, I am sure that I substituted many times at Bowen while you were assistant principal there. She says you are at that post now. What are conditions like at Bowen? How many students do you have? How many teachers? Who is principal? Do you have any desires to be principal--anywhere? Do you have a mixed student population or all black, all white, Mexican or what? Is there still a tall fellow there who taught wood-working and was the second most narrow minded person I ever met--the first was a guy on the staff named Sam Giacco or something like that. I don't mean to come on this strong, but when I started thinking about Bowen High School, I was flooded with memory of a human relations course --or two--that I took for extended credit. Both those men were in it, and I guess they both made definite impressions on me!

Anyhow, how are you? What else do you do besides work at Bowen? Do you have children? How old? What do they do? What is this interest of which my sister speaks, in genaalogy?

Six years ago we worked up this little brochure. I worked out the "classification" scheme--sort of a take-off on the Dewey Decimal system I guess. After all, I am a media specialist--which used to be called librarian. I hope that it is understandable and easy to figure out.

There have been a number of births and deaths and marriages since this was created...also at least one divorce. I keep thinking that I will create a new one, but that involves tracking down a lot of people, and somehow, I have not had the time.

Do you and your wife ever get to this area? It is growing so fast and showing no signs of stopping. It is lovely; I am so glad that I live here. Harriet probably told you that my husband, Harold Trock, died in 1973 and that in 1976 I married Harold Roussman. I have been very fortunate. My children all live here in town. Hal and I live in the house into which I moved when I first came down here. My married daughter and her husband and two children live about 7 miles away. My second daughter, whose real estate card I think I will enclose (in case you might think about coming here to live) has a house about ten miles from me and my son, Rick, and his wife, Judy Hoodwin, (who also went to South Shore Temple Sunday School) live about 6 miles from me.

I am a Media Specialist at Winter Park High School and spend most of my energies in the audio-visual department of our library. It is great. I have no desire to retire and do not have to until I reach 70--which still sounds a bit away.....getting closer, though.

I would be very glad to hear from you.

Happy New Year to you and your wife and family.

Obviously, typing is not one of my strong points. Sincerely yours,
Natalie Roussman

SCHOVER - BUSCH
FAMILY, BY
NATALIE TROCK

Sarah Schover - Reva Busch Family

Directory

May 1975

Compiled by Natalie Trock
Typed by Harriet Cahnmann

The families of Sarah Schover and Reva Busch are large and far-flung. Yet, hopefully, a strong feeling of origin, of foundation, of stock, pervades those who knew and remember these two stalwart "women of valor."

Yearly Family Picnics in Lincoln Park sufficed for some years, but as people moved away from Chicago and children grew older, such picnics ceased. In 1975 on the way to Jonathan Cohen's Bar Mitzvah in Racine, Wisconsin, the fun of being together as a family was once again noted and several cousins, Pearl Kraut, Ruthie Burrows, Ruthie Goldberg and others suggested having a once-a-year family reunion. It is from that idea that this booklet and this day have grown.

The booklet is a Directory of the descendants of Reva Busch and of Sarah Schover. It contains two lists of the children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren, one in alphabetical order with addresses, and the other in family groups. In both lists each individual (couple) has a personal number that indicates that person's numerical order in the lineage. By reading that number--from right to left-- one can determine the parentage and the line of relationship to Sarah or Reva (or as the writer of this chronology would say...to Grandma Schover or to Tante Busch.)

It has come to my attention recently that Sara and Reva had an older brother, Mr. Weinberg, of whom I did not know. Presently I am engaged in trying to track down information on his descendants. But, if we give him the number 1, and Sara, the second child, the number 2. then Reva Busch, the third child in the original family would have the number 3. All of the descendents of each of these original Weinbergs carry a number starting with the parental digit, 1, 2 or 3.

The first child of each of our originators would have a two-digit number--the parent's number followed by the number 1. Thus, Rose Messe's number would be 21 (Sarah Schover was the second child, and Rose was her first child.) Are you getting the picture? Let's go one generation farther--using a different child of Sarah's. Adelyn Nixon's number is 223; she is the third child of Herman Schover, who is the second child of Sarah, who is the second in her family. Is it getting any clearer? Let's take one more example, the newest baby in the family--Joshua Martin Alpert, born February 28, 1975. Joshua's number is 23221. Now read the digits, right to left as you think through this description.

Joshua is the first child of
Janice, who is the second child of
Charles, who is the second child of Reva, who is the third child of
Sarah, who is the second in her family.

Now that you have the number-system clear, you can interpret each person's family status as you glance down the alphabetical list which is cross-indexed by number to the family-group list.

Added note: There are ninety-six descendants of Sarah Schover and thirty-four descendants of Reva Busch, counting each couple as one descendant.
